When I grow too old to dream
Your love will live in my heart
And when I grow too old to dream
Your love will live in my heart.

Stephen Barkley - "Love is like the measles; we all have to go through it."

Brenda Arquitt - "Time flies by, but leaves its shadow behind."

When you're lonely and sad and think the world is oh so bad
 think back in time
 to the days that were yours and mine.

Remember the days that we all knew so well
 and never knowing what time would tell.
 Now we know how fast it flew
 and all the times we wish we never knew.

There's also the times we don't want to forget and in our hearts will always be kept.
 The memories we hold are oh so dear friends may be far but thoughts are near.

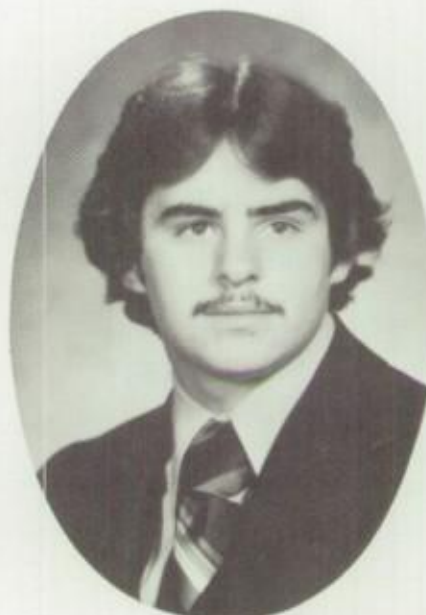

Realizing now I know it came fast
 now so much is in the past.
 I wish I could live those days over again
 but I realize now it is the end.

It's been nice having friends like you
 I hope you feel that way too.
 So save those memories in your heart
 even though we are apart.

Lisa Tyler

Another Sad Song

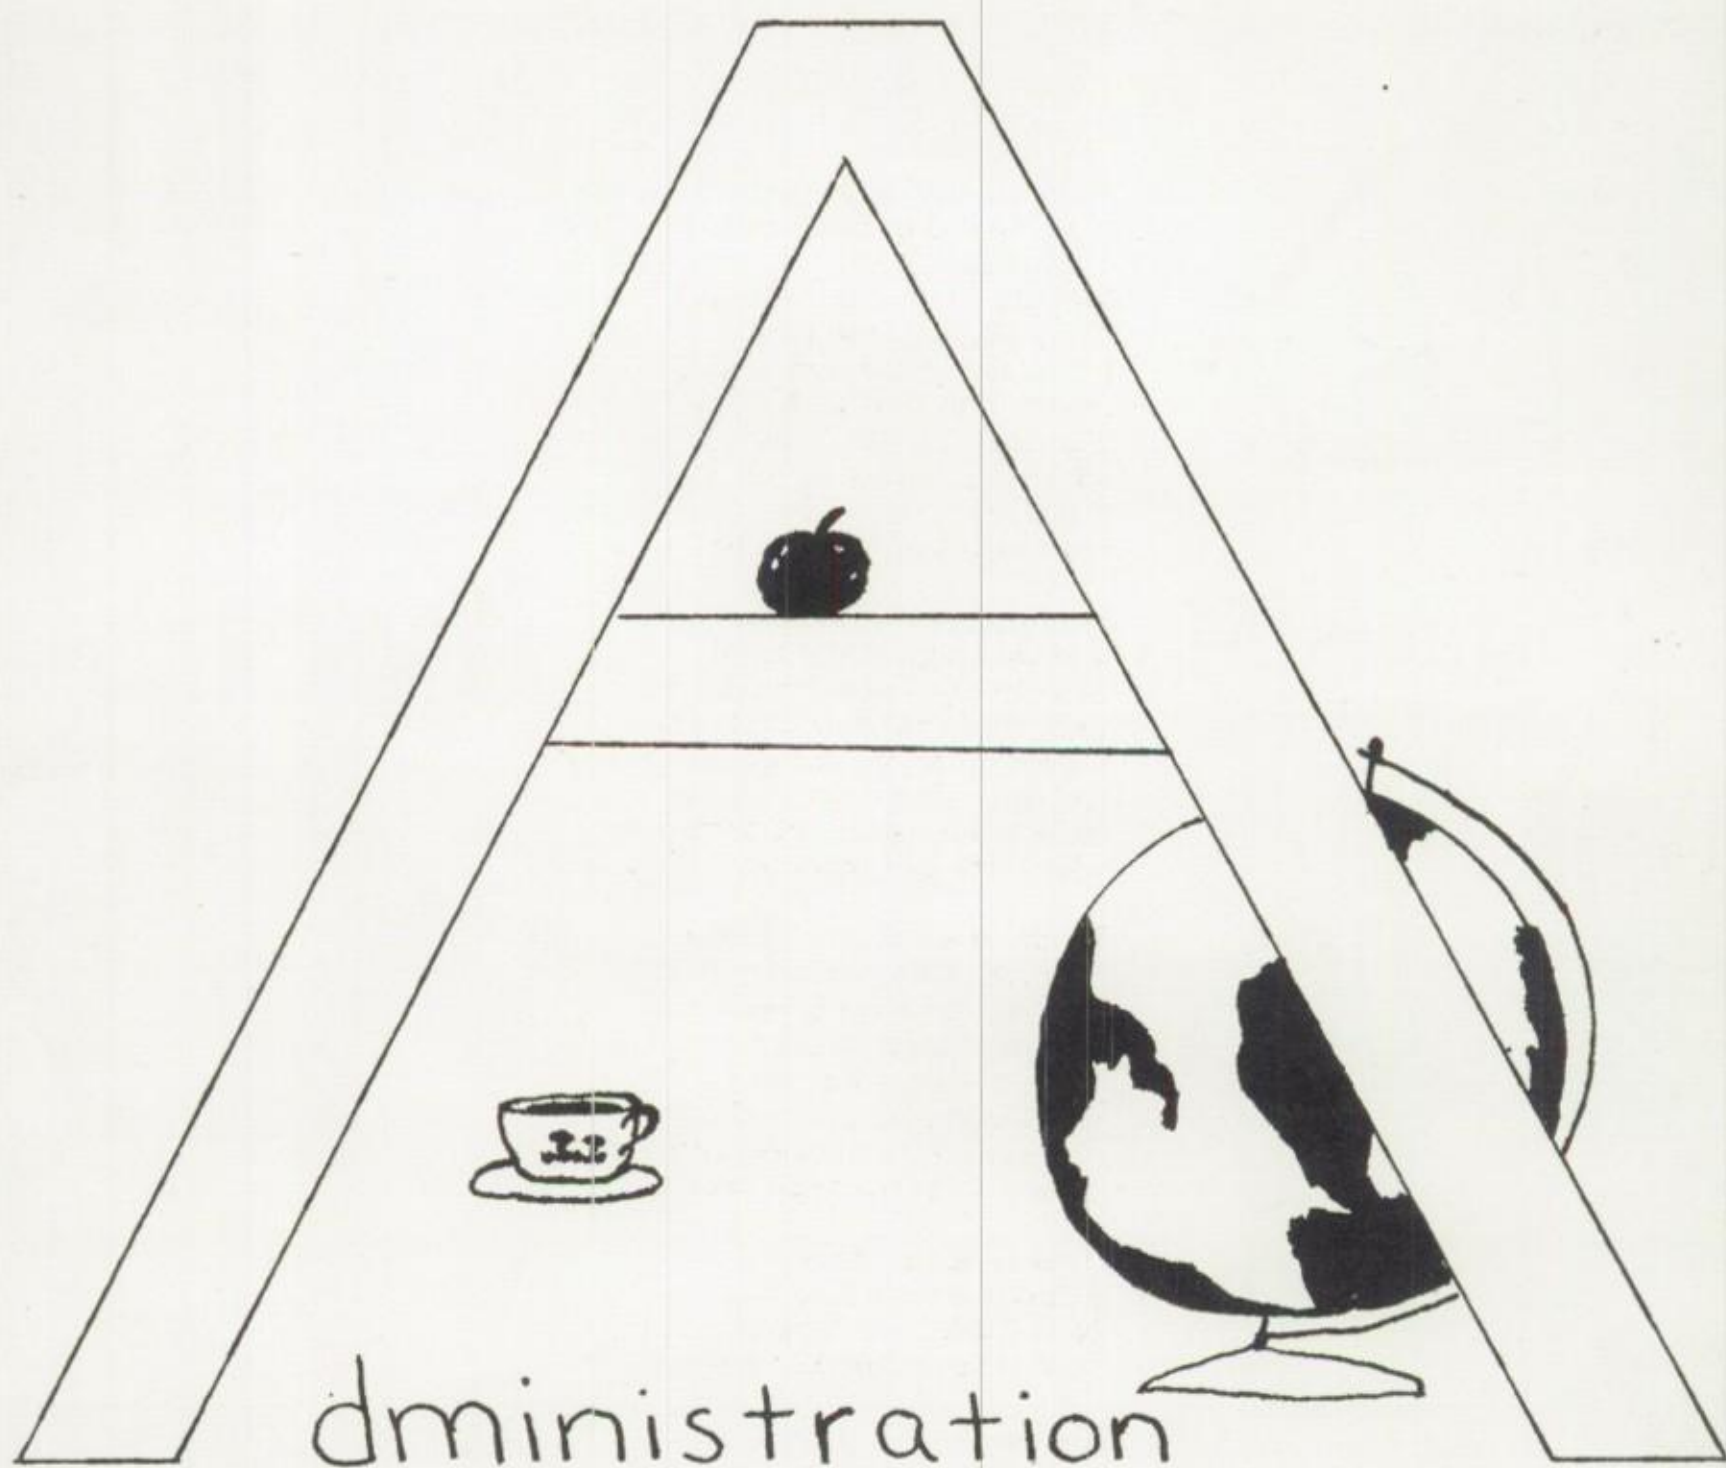

Why do I write love songs?
They never come true.
I live inside the lyrics and dream I'm still with you.
The love I write I have
will never come to me.
I'll never see the love
my words say there'll be.

I'm crying out for love
and waiting for the hand
to help me while I'm down
and teach me how to stand.
I wait in lonely corners
trying to find a sign
to help me reach for someone who I can say is mine.

I need the companionship
in a far away, quiet spot
to show me love is real and loneliness is not to be with me forever
and always be at my side
so I can share the memories of how I loved, then cried.

This ends my story.
I hope you see I belong
Now I see I've done it.
I've written another sad song.

I know not what lies in wait for me,
on the road ahead.
For who can know where that road
will lead or where it will end,
And who is to decide what my fate shall be?
And who is to guide my way?

The roads I may take are many,
And some will see me through,
But I must choose the one,
And if perchance I choose the right one,
I will find a happiness known to few.

What can one write about a love that has not been already said?

Is there no unique way of saying
how my heart has bled?

Through the years, great men like
Pluto, Aristotle and Shakespeare,
Have used every way known to wrench
from the heart a tear.

I can not compete with such men and words, but I can cry out my loneliness; and beg for your undying forgiveness.

The heart cries out to be heard;
to be let free; to pur out it's aches and grief.

It longs to fly like a bird; to go to thee; to float words into your ear as softly as a leaf.

For I take the full blame, and any argument is coal to the enraging flame.

May I die before it is snuffed out by my own hand, and may all who live on this land, cry a tear and experience a portion of my fear,

If I ever forget you.

Matthew O'Brian

Talent to no end . . . that's what I say.

Sweet Time

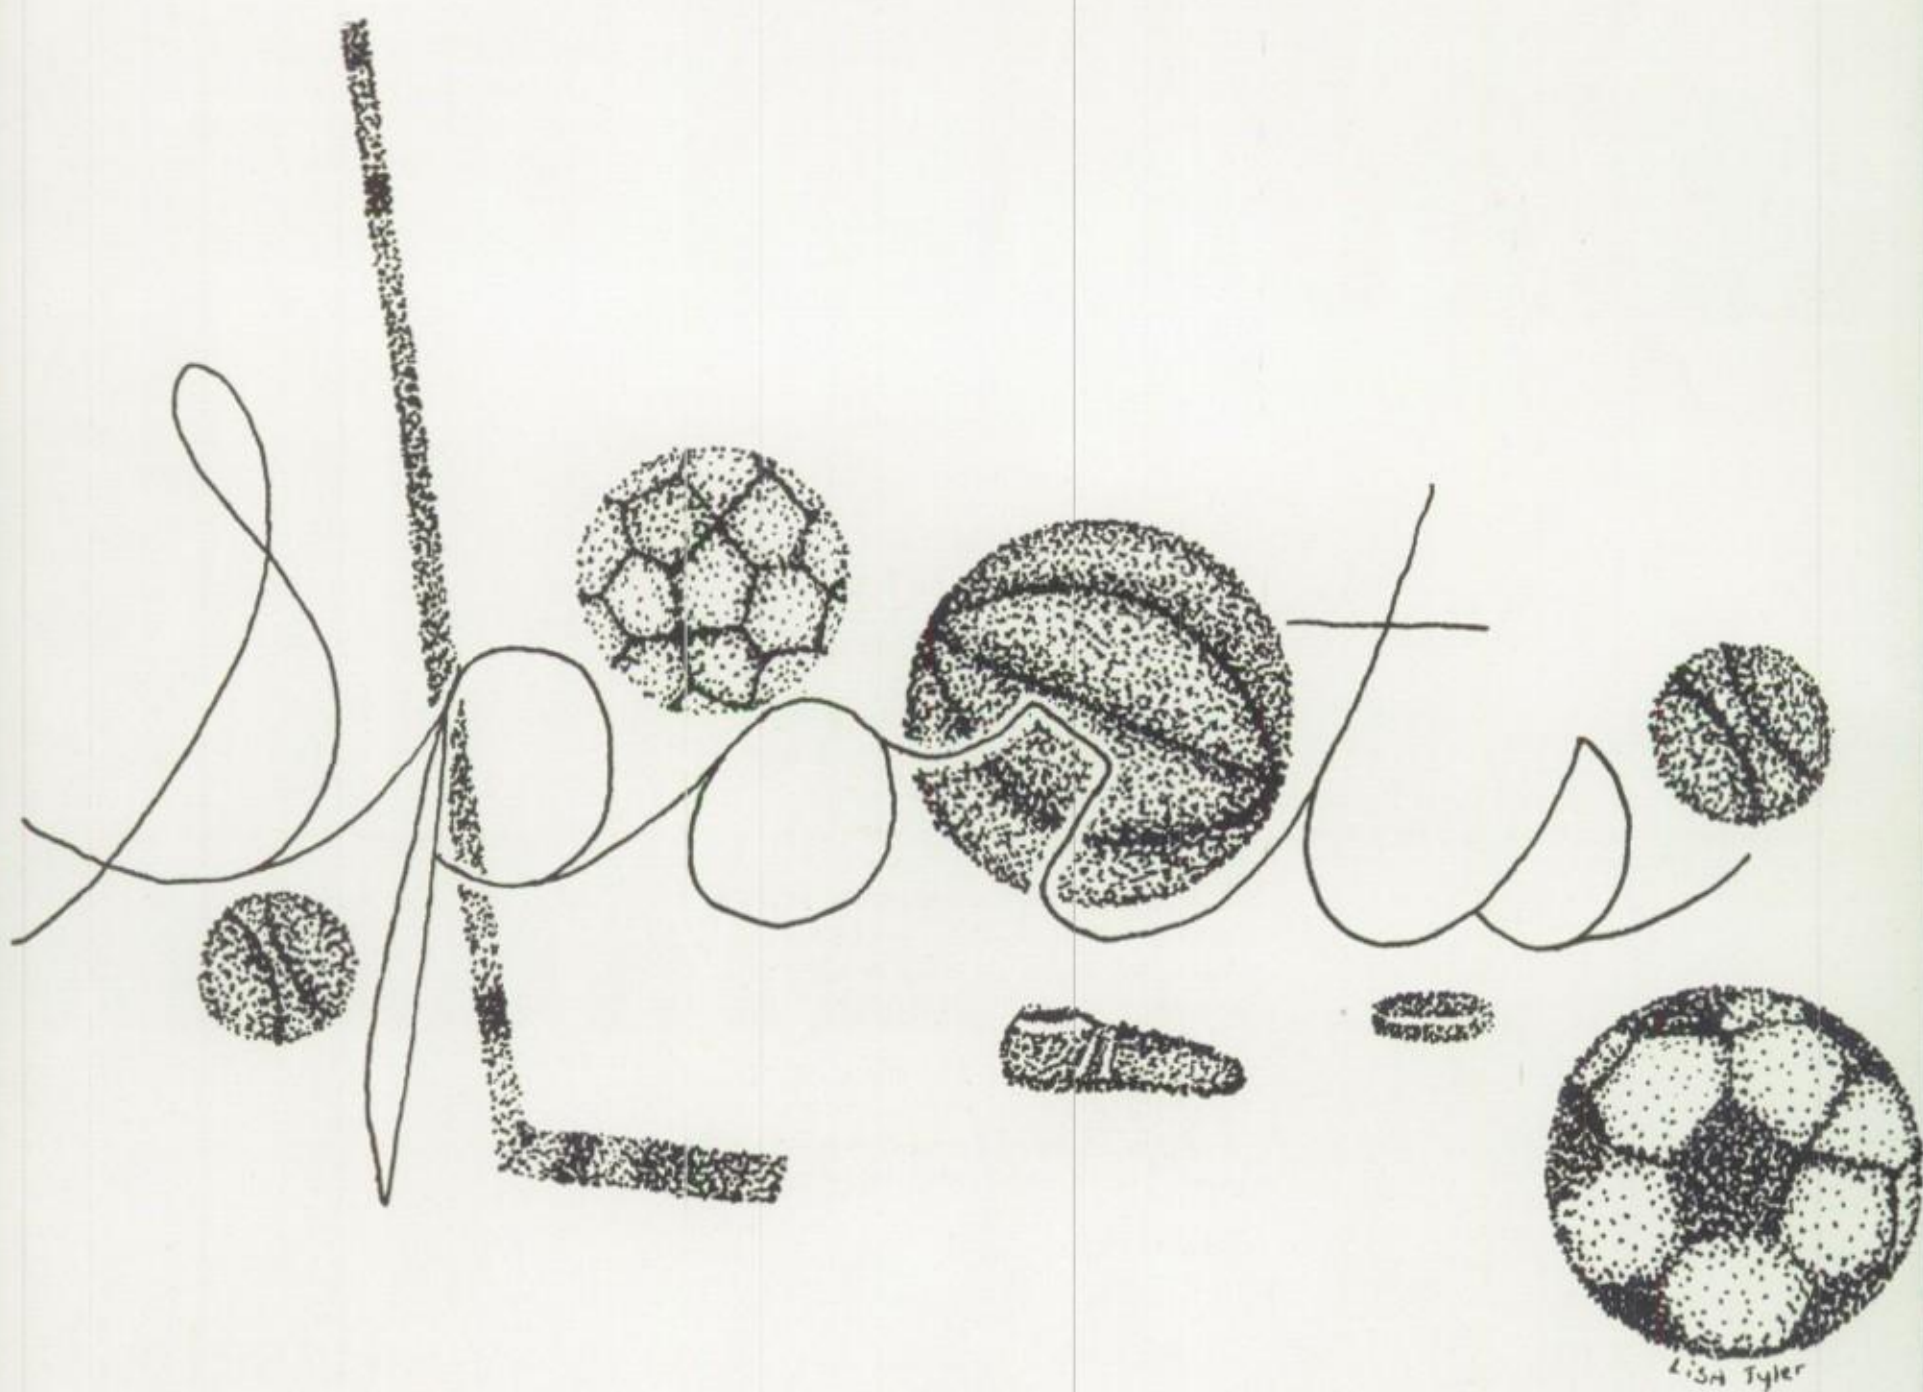

Taking my sweet time
to find my peace of mind
that will put my body to ease
and let me do as I please.

Looking in old country stores
and walking through the doors
taking me back to a time
when happiness was mine.

Walking down a deserted beach
and making a one-audience speech that no one else will hear or get a chance to cheer.

Sitting down in my rocking chair
and tidying up my gray hair
I remember when life was mine
and I took my sweet time.

When one finds a rare gem,
He does not throw it away to look for a better one.
He does not try to turn it into a perfection; he only shines it and gives it care.
When one finds a rare person,
He, too, does not throw it away or hide it and run.
He, too, does not try to make it into something else, He treats that person equal and fair.

"This year the National Honor Society reached its goals by continuous perserverance and work. We thank our sponsors, Mrs. Patterson and Mr. Graham, for all their time and effort which they have given us.

This Society was developed to illuminate the outstanding students of the community, who are chosen by ratings in character, leadership, and scholarship.

As we progress through life, our goals may become obscure at times, but if these goals are harder to reach, they mean more to us in the end.

I would like to wish next year's Honor Society all of the good luck we had this year - - 'to be strong in will, to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.' "

Who is she? She is the typical absent-minded professor . . . she has chalk-covered hands, and never can find her glasses (they are usually on top of her head!) . . . she is a champion candy-seller . . . she is an Honor Society advisor . . . she is physics and chemistry teacher par excellence . . . she is our friend . . . she is concerned about what we learn or don't learn . . . she is a dedicated teacher . . . and we are grateful to her.

Thanks For Everything

Who is she? She is an advisor of Student Council . . . advocate of women's lib . . . she always points out the other side of the issue . . . she's small but she grows big plants . . . she drinks tea from an over-worked tea bag . . . she teaches us the law and hopes we obey it! . . . she is a concerned social studies teacher . . . we admire her and thank her for her concern and commitment to us.

you have changed
my life very much
and you have made me very happy. No matter what happens between me and my parents you will always come first.
I look at it this way. you are the most important person in my life and that will never change. I love you very much and that is forever. Remember there ain't no stopping us now. Please don't feel bad if I leave, you never know I may not have to see what happens.
Things will work out we will just have to see what happens.
Don't rush me when I'm writing in a yearbook. So finally remember I'll be around for along time you know what that means. Love you babes.
